Our Mission is...

young: We will bring Shakespeare to life with entertaining productions of force and beauty. We are a theatre of classically trained young actors creating productions that inspire, enlighten and entertain a modern audience.

fearless: We will delve with fearless resolve into the world of classical text and performance guided by some of the great classical actors of the theatre. Our emphasis will be on collaboration, knowing that we must learn from our collective past to speak to our future.

provocative: We will provoke audiences with the power and relevance of our productions. Using traditional all-male casting, our productions will reveal what Shakespeare's own audience might have experienced, bringing us closer to the author's original vision.

inspiring: We will focus on the basic elements of storytelling: the actor, the story and the text, to achieve clarity and relevance. We know that classical theatre must first be entertaining in order to move and inspire our audience.

committed: We will further the study and enjoyment of Shakespeare by supporting a vital education initiative bringing classical theatre into New York City's under-served public schools while building a new audience to be challenged and inspired.
